1500 Tons of High Explosives and Incendiaries Are Cascaded on Industrial and Railroad Center After Diversionary Force Draws Off Attacking Enemy Fighters by Raiding Berlin.

LONDON, Dec. 4.—A powerful force of British bombers, after feinting at bomb-ravaged Berlin, was revealed today to have carried out a pulverizing attack on the German industrial and railroad center of Leipzig last night.

Fifteen hundred tons of high explosives and incendiaries were cascaded on Leipzig by the main force of RAF raiders after a diversionary force drew off attacking enemy fighters by raiding Berlin.

Five reports received said the bombing was "concentrated and effective."

Speedy, 400-mile-an-hour wooden mosquito planes attacked objectives in Berlin and mines were laid in enemy waters during the night. Other British planes carried out intruder operations against enemy airfields over a widespread area.

Twenty-four British bombers and one fighter are missing from these operations.

With half of Berlin reported in ruins as a result of five devastating RAF raids in two weeks, giant British bombers struck another heavy blow at an unnamed target in Germany today.

The authoritative British Press Association described the force that

Roosevelt, Churchill and Stalin Hold Conference

By Leo V. Dolan
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

LONDON, Dec. 4.—The historic and long-awaited meeting of President Roosevelt and Premier Stalin was revealed today to have taken place in Tehran, the capital of Iran (Persia).

Announcement that the conference was ended was made by the Moscow radio, which quoted an official Soviet Tass news agency dispatch from Iran. It said simply:

"Several days ago a conference of leaders of the three Allied powers—President Roosevelt, Prime Minister Churchill and Premier Stalin—took place in Tehran. Diplomatic and military representatives took part in the conference.

"Questions concerning the conduct of the war against Germany as well as a number of political questions were discussed at the conference. Decisions relating to these matters, which will be published, were taken."

(In Washington, Elmer Davis, director of the Office of War Information, said that the announcement by Tass came as a surprise to Government news officials. Davis is still incensed over premature disclosure of the Roosevelt-Churchill-Chiang Kai-shek conference in Cairo by the British Renter's news agency.)

District Governor Visits Exchange Club

A business meeting was conducted by Bristol Exchange Club members when they met at the Elks' Home Thursday evening.

Committee reports, discussion of plans for future meetings, and the nomination of officers to serve during the coming year consumed the major portion of the meeting time.

Howard F. Young, district governor, was on hand for his official visit to the Bristol Club. Mr. Young is a member and past president of the Pen Argyl Exchange Club.

G. E. Kiefer, member of the State Board of Control of the Exchange Club, and Richard K. Bender, chairman of the program committee of the Easton Exchange Club, were also present. Kiefer is also a member of the Easton Club.

Speaking before approximately 25 persons at the meeting of the Newtown New Century Club, Miss Evelyn Davies, director of physical education in the Newtown schools, urged the club members to get behind a movement to provide that town with a recreation center, which, she said, is badly needed for the young people of the community.

Taking as her subject, "Juvenile Delinquency," Miss Davies paid a high compliment to the children in the borough because they have not been involved in crime in spite of the fact that the town lacks a community center. Wholesome recreation, it was brought out by Miss Davies, will keep the children out of difficulty.

The immediate purchase of collision insurance to cover all three pieces of apparatus was decided upon by Doylestown Fire Company. The type of policy selected covers any damage in excess of $100 up to the full cost of all three machines.

At the meeting presided over by W. Carlisle Hobensack, president, a special committee, consisting of Horace M. Mann, chairman, Harold Hellyer, Clarence Irwin and Harry Costello, was appointed to arrange for a dinner for the members of the company to be given probably in January.

Many interesting features were included on the program at a meeting of the Quakertown Rotary Club. Rotarian Jack Sernoff, in behalf of the club, presented Russell Yoder an outfit for an infant in honor of the birth of his first daughter, Gloria Fay. Rotarian Sernoff then called on Rotarians Ray Hartman, Jacob Shoemaker, Joseph S. Neldig, and C. William Freed to add words of advice to the new father. After this feature Past President Charles H. Ortt had charge of the induction of a new member, Lee Smith, Richlandtown.

Naval Affairs Committee Votes Brewster "Reprieve"

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4.—The House Naval Affairs investigating committee in secret session voted a "reprieve" for Brewster.

The committee agreed, reluctantly, not to demand cancellation of the Navy's $55,000,000 contract for Corsair fighters on the grounds that the 150 planes a month which Henry Kaiser has promised to turn out by next May are necessary in the present week.

In his report, Mr. Weeks said that many counties and communities throughout the state are pointing for December 7 either as a final Victory Day for their campaigns or as the day on which to begin a canvass of important territory.

"No date is more appropriate for a demonstration of the determination of Americans to back our boys to the limit than the anniversary of the attack on Pearl Harbor," Mr. Weeks said. "Thoughts of that dastardly act bring home to both campaign workers and to those whom they approach how very small is the part each one of us at home is asked to play in this war and the necessity of attaining our objectives in full, as our boys must attain their infinitely more costly objectives."

York County went over the top last week, Mr. Weeks announced, with $337,671, or 8 per cent over its goal of $312,242, and is expected to reach $350,000, or 12 per cent over. The War Fund figure included in the goal was $182,842. Beauchamp Smith was chairman of the campaign.

Lebanon County reported it had passed its goal of $212,042 with subscriptions of $213,496. The War

PUBLIC WELFARE COMMITTEE OF TRAVEL CLUB PRESENTS 2 SPEAKERS; TUBERCULOSIS SOCIETY HEALTH CENTER WORK EXPLAINED TO WOMEN

The public welfare committee of the Travel Club had charge of the instructive program presented yesterday in the club home under the direction of Mrs. Walter W. Pitkonka, chairman of the committee.

The business meeting was in charge of Mrs. Harry T. Neher, vice-president, in the absence of Mrs. E. Linton Martin, president.

Two women appeared before the club members as speakers of the day. Mrs. Emma Stover, of Doylestown, educational secretary of the Bucks County Tuberculosis Society, and Miss Lida Fite, supervisor of the Old York Road Health Center and Family Service. The two presented details of the activities and services of their respective groups.

Mrs. Pitkonka presented Mrs. Stover, a former resident of Bristol, and Mrs. Malford Callanan introduced Miss Fite, her former classmate at Temple University School of Nursing.

The "follow-up" work carried out by the Tuberculosis Society after examination of school pupils by the physicians, was mentioned by Mrs. Stover, the children suspected of having chest ailments then being taken to proper clinics for X-rays. Mrs. Stover mentioned that there are approximately 1200 cases of tuberculosis in Bucks county at present. She advocated examinations every six months, impressing that the family physician should be consulted at the first sign of ill health. "He is the one who can examine and help you," she added as she deplored use of patent medicines on the "prescription" of the individual patient alone.

Charts presented by the former Bristolian showed the high death rate from tuberculosis among unskilled workers as compared with those in the higher salary brackets, where more money for proper food is available and where food is more carefully chosen. She stated that the work of the society is made possible through sale of Christmas seals.

That every case of tuberculosis comes from another was one strong point given. "It is just as contagious as small-pox," she added as she mentioned more people have died from this dread disease in four years than in all the wars this country has participated in. "There is only one cure, proper rest and good nourishing food." Segregation to the greatest extent possible was advocated for the "TB" patient.

Miss Fite, in outlining work of the Old York Road Health Center and Family Service, said that the

Fifth Army Pushes Steadily Forward

Algeria—American and British forces of the Fifth Army pushed steadily forward against powerful defensive positions in central Italy today, some thirty-six hours after launching a long awaited attack in the area flanking the Capua-Rome highway.

First reports from the battlefronts said the Allied troops had advanced two miles at some points, that a "considerable number of prisoners had been captured and that operations were "proceeding according to plan."

Although the Fifth was attacking viciously both north and south of the vital highway which winds through Cassino toward the Italian capital, it was emphasized that the heaviest attack was being carried out against German defenses at Mt. Camino, four miles southwest of Mignano. The American and British infantrymen also have fought forward for short distances over extremely rough ground to the north of Mt. Camino, the spokesman added.

Committees Named By Conservation Ass'n

DOYLESTOWN, Dec. 6.—A county Agricultural Conservation Association has been named to administer the program of the Agricultural Adjustment Agency in the county.

It has been the policy of the United States Department of Agriculture to have the farmers in every community handle this program themselves, rather than by federal employees, and this has provided farmers an opportunity to build the kind of farm program they want.

The 1943 county committee was re-elected for 1944. Russell K. Edwards, Ivyland, remains the chairman. Walter Magnus Teller, Plumsteadville, is vice-chairman, and Philip W. Smith, New Hope, is the third member. Nick Yunger, Bedminster, is the first alternate and A. D. Lawrence, Quakertown, is the second alternate.

The election committee emphasized that although they will try to handle all aspects of the program as fairly and efficiently as they know how, the real strength of the program is in the hands of the farmers and the community committeemen whom they elected.

The county committeemen will continue to hold weekly meetings on Mondays, at which time they can be seen by committeemen or farmers. The office will continue to be open all day every day, including holidays, and Chairman Edwards will be on hand to help farmers solve their wartime problems.

Community committeemen named for lower Bucks County sections follow:

Community 1, Falls, Bristol and Bensalem townships, J. Gancarz, Morrisville R. D. 1, E. H. Shoemaker, Bristol R. D. 1, J. E. Bloomfield, Oakford; E. J. Fleming, Andalusia, and D. Ferri, Bristol.

Named to succeed the two as directors are Norman Gaugler and Robert Vansant.

Authorization was given to secure a part-time helper for cafeteria work. A decision was also made to install blowers in the furnace in the high school building, a financial saving being effected by such installation, buckwheat coal being then burned instead of pea coal.

Attention was called to the new law regarding penalties for school taxes. Normally five per cent penalty is imposed on unpaid taxes on December 1st, after such are referred to the county commissioners. At the last session of the legislature an additional penalty was made effective January 1, 1944) of 1/2 of one per cent each month thereafter until the taxes are paid.

The pencils required for the 1944-45 term were ordered at this meeting.

Their Good Deed For The Day

(By "The Stroller")

Two prominent men of Bristol were seen the other afternoon walking along Mill street with a little child holding onto their hands. Now one of the gentlemen is a well-known bachelor, while the other is not the father of any young child, so those who knew the pair were somewhat perplexed. Oh, perhaps they are playing Santa, thought some, while others just stared.

But this is the story. As the two men were crossing Pond street at Mill they came upon the child and realized that he was lost. The bachelor, taking the youngster, went into nearby stores, endeavoring to locate someone to whom the tot belonged. But without success.

Finally they went to the police headquarters, and there, sure enough, the youngster's identity was learned. "Why, the officers are out now searching for that youngster," said the desk man. The police car was radioed and the child returned to an anxious parent.

Last Two Court Cases End November Term

Joseph F. Zetovich, of near Copersburg, was acquitted of a charge of larceny of growing tomatoes, but directed by the jury to pay the costs amounting to $78.25. The Commonwealth contended that he stole tomatoes belonging to a neighbor on October 9th, this year, when the defendant and "some helpers were defendant and some helpers were baskets on a truck. When discovered, the defendant and his helpers drove off and left the tomatoes in the field.

After about three hours' discussion, the jury in the case of Commonwealth against Lew Loewenthal returned a verdict of "not guilty" of the crime charged. The defendant was charged with open lewdness in connection with two young girls in the vicinity of Solebury.

AUTOMATIC PILOTS

Much of the success of American precision bombing is attributed to the installation of automatic pilots, "electronically controlled, on the Flying Fortresses.

The idea seems to have collateral possibilities. Think how many officials in Washington could use an automatic pilot to keep them from going around in circles, or at least help them realize whether they are coming or going.

An automatic pilot, in the form of an inconspicuous earcap or earplug, would serve to steady many a bureaucrat to keep from encroaching on other departments or otherwise covering too much territory.

There are so many persons getting into each other's way in Washington that they need automatic pilots as much as do the bomber crews.

And if national regimentation gets more badly complicated, every last American will need an automatic pilot before long to give him the right steer, so he doesn't wander into the internal revenue department to get his license to switch to heavier underwear or go scurrying into the OPA offices to get a permit to date up a blonde.

DUST-BOWL DANGER!

Aware of the gigantic task facing this country in supplying with food its own people and its armed forces overseas and in doing its share, with the forty-three other nations, in helping to supply the liberated countries as the war progresses, the War Food Administration has raised its production goal for 1944 by 16,000,000 acres to a total for the nation of 380,000,000.

It is vitally important that every bit of tillable land be brought into production next year. City inhabitants learned last summer and fall of the substantial amount of food that a victory garden can produce, and the number cultivating such gardens should increase next year.

But there are large tracts of land in the country which were not worked last year and the mere setting of a goal will not insure that they be cultivated next year. Every effort must be made to see that available land does not lie idle in 1944.

A disturbing shadow touched the food picture recently when H. H. Bennett, chief of the United States Soil Conservation Service, warned in a Chicago address that the nation is risking a return to the dust-bowl conditions of the middle years of the decade of 1930. He pointed out that thousands of acres of land in the central and southern great plains have been seeded to wheat, despite the lowest moisture content in the soil in numerous localities since 1937.

Mr. Bennett said that in some places the soil is already moving and that unless substantial and widespread rain or snow falls this winter, soil-blowing again may become prevalent. Thus, he saw both soil and wheat being gambled on the chance that sufficient snow or rain will fall in time.

FASHION PARADE

By Milo Anderson

(Famous Hollywood Stylist Writing For International News Service)
HOLLYWOOD—(INS)—The fashion pendulum is swinging back toward the long evening dress and toward a newer interest in wool, based on feminine designs.

A woman likes the poise, the dignity and grace of long-sleeved skirt. No matter how elegant or how beautifully designed a short skirt may be, it cannot stand by itself for evening wear. It must depend to some extent on accessories to dress it up. Then, there are occasions where the long dress seems to be the only thing—perhaps because it always used to be.

As to the new trend in wools, the element of conscious conservatism has precluded selections that are the perfect answer for something to wear around town in the afternoon, and yet will be "right" through the evening, too.

Ann Sheridan, lovely Warner star, has a stunning new evening gown of black crepe with long-sleeved, V-necked bodice and sheath skirt slit at the front for greater ease in walking. New touch is the extra peplum-scarf of black net highlighted with iridescent sequins which she ties on about the waist. A matching scarf drapes over her titian tresses, loosely under the chin, and is caught to one shoulder with a diamond pinwheel centered with an opal.

Olivia de Havilland has just purchased a striking gown of black silk crepe, its long line emphasized with an inserted full length drape of chartreuse and purple chiffon. It is worn with shirred elbow-length gloves of black fabric, over which are snapped bracelets of amethysts and gold. A headress in ostrich feathers combines the two shades of purple and chartreuse. The dressy wool dress has been come as popular as a No. 18 shoe stamp. Jane Wymann has a chic number of black wool topped with an emerald-green wool packet which is encrusted around the neck yoke with black suede accessories, emerald jewels and a clever little flat pillow of black suede, the slides trimmed with net and jet black coils.

STORKS SHUN NAZIS

ITHACA, N. Y.—(INS)—Even the storks shun Germany and Axis-occupied countries! So says a missionary in Southern Rhodesia, Africa, in a letter to Prof. C. A. Taylor of Cornell.

The storks migrate to Southern Rhodesia by the thousands during the European winter, and they usually start their flight back some time in March or early April. But this year, wrote the Rev. Arthur J. Orner, the storks disassociated themselves with the Axis by remaining in Rhodesia.

Food Wasted in Homes Of Bucks County

Bucks County's 27,619 housewives could feed 7,410 soldiers for a year with the food wasted annually in homes of the county, an official of the county's leading food distributor estimated today.

150 pounds of food are wasted annually in Bucks County homes, according to Harvey A. Baum, head of A&P Tea Company's produce-buying operations.

"Food is a munition of war and everyone must fight waste of it now," Baum pointed out. "Efficient food producers, processors and distributors have worked for years to reduce waste. Our company, for example, has cut waste and spoilage on perishable fruits and vegetables by 50 per cent during the past 20 years," he added. "Now the government is urging a similar war on food waste in the home."

Kitchen efficiency, Baum suggested, should include three points: (1) Buy as nearly as possible just the required amount; (2) serve moderate helpings, and (3) use all left-overs.

Baum said that although housewives have eliminated much food waste since Pearl Harbor, over eight per cent of all food bought for home consumption is still wasted. While it is obvious that waste cannot be prevented entirely, he added, carefully planned conservation should cut the loss in half and thus 3,705 soldiers could be fed with the resulting savings in homes of this county.

Civilians eat about 1,514 pounds of food each year, he concluded, while the average soldier "puts away" 1,916 pounds annually.

"THAT KEITH WOMAN"

by PHYLLIS MOORE GALLAGHER

CHAPTER THIRTY

"Now, you, Miss Randolph," Hornblower began, drawing up a chair beside my bed. He sat down lumberously. . . and in the next five minutes I was to learn something that would be electrifying.

"Now, Miss Randolph," Sergeant Hornblower began, "suppose you tell me everything about that attack on you last night or rather early today. Every detail, please."

When I'd finished, some plainclothes men came in, asked where my room was, and went down the hall to take pictures and dust for fingerprints. When they finally departed they had the rock with them, and I knew, somehow, that it would be as free from incriminating prints as the other had been. I told Hornblower that, and he said, "Yep, I guess you're right. I made a mistake. I should have had someone watching that rock garden. I might have guessed the murderer would strike again, and that he or she might use a rock."

"You—you KNEW where the rock that killed Pamela came from?" I asked, eyes wide.

"Sure! That's how I knew it was a premeditated murder."

"Oh," I gulped and wondered what else the police knew.

"I'll have someone watching that rock garden from now on, you can bet your life," he stressed, and immediately looked as if he wanted to recall his words.

Lt. Kathleen Lehman Is Enthusiastic Over Duties

DOYLESTOWN, Dec. 4—Lieut. Kathleen Lehman, U. S. Army Nursing Corps, while here on leave for a few days, enthusiastically praised the work being done for wounded soldiers at Valley Forge Hospital, where she was night supervisor for several months.

"What the surgeons are doing in the way of plastic surgery is really wonderful," she said, and otherwise indicated her admiration for work at the hospital.

Lieut. Lehman expects to go overseas in the near future, but has gone to Camp Livingston, La., where she has been finishing training.

It has evidently been real training in the field to toughen the nurse.

The Lieutenant says "I love the Army work. The training was really something, with its obstacle stunts, including jumping into a swamp into which the laundry water was drained, soap-n-all."

Up to this time Lieut. Lehman has been in the Third Service Command, but will now be in the 8th Armed Forces Command.

winged its way toward the continent shortly after midnight as "heavy."

More than seven thousand five hundred tons of bombs have been rained on the Nazi capital in these five history-making raids, equal to the total weight of bombs dropped on London during the entire eleven months' blitz on London in 1940 and 1941.

Berlin was said to be without gas, water, electricity and transportation as a result of the latest RAF assault. A Reuter's dispatch from Stockholm quoted travelers arriving from Berlin in Malmoe, Sweden, as saying that the Marienfelde, Lichtenrade and Charlottenburg districts of the capital had been heavily damaged in Thursday's raid.

Fifteen hundred tons of high explosives and the new-type phosphorous incendiaries were cascaded on the heart of the Third Reich, most of them falling on previously untouched sections. Forty-one British bombers failed to return, an indication that as many as eight hundred planes may have taken part in the attack.

Churchill Dances At The Roosevelt Party

NEW YORK, Dec. 4.—(INS)—NBC correspondent Grant Parr is the authority for the story that Prime Minister Winston Churchill, dressed in what airmen call a "zipper siren suit," danced a solo waltz at President Roosevelt's Thanksgiving party in Cairo.

Parr said the Prime Minister asked the soldier orchestra to play "Carry Me Back to Old Virginia" no less than four times.

But, according to Parr, the soldiers were stumped when Harry Hopkins asked them to play "Pistol Packin' Mama." They've been away from home so long they haven't heard it.

Parr said he got his information from a member of the orchestra who told him the musicians had as much fun as the notables, especially when they heard the "big shots" bellow out their favorite old melodies.

PURCELL AND SEDGWICK

A year ago we unveiled a plaque for our boys who had answered a call. Today we stand there with heads bowed in prayer for our first Third Ward Boys to fall.

We honor John Purcell of the Army, Joseph Sedgwick who served on the sea, Though death deprives us of their presence, They still remain in our memory.

Two brave lads of the old Third Ward Like their parents and grandparents, too, Their great-grandfathers fought in the Civil War.

In uniforms of the grand army blue, Who will be next to fall in the line? It may be your son or it may be mine, Only time alone can answer this test—

God grant unto them eternal rest; Place their names on this plaque in letters of gold

For the debt we owe them can never be told.

—Catherine Curran Smith.

Moulinie Faces Prison;
Guilty of Manslaughter

GEORGETOWN, Del., Dec. 4.—(INS)—Army Warrant Officer Carl

Moulinie faced from one to 30 years imprisonment today after being found guilty of involuntary manslaughter in the love-triangle slaying of his fellow warrant officer, John H. Worthington.

A stay of sentence was granted when the 38-year-old Fort Miles French-born officer's counsel filed notice of an appeal for a new trial. The Sussex County Grand Jury deliberated approximately five and one-half hours.

Moulinie was accused of shooting Worthington in the latter's Rehoboth Beach home, November 4th, following an argument in which Worthington accused his best friend of intimacies with his 25-year-old wife, Elaine.

"Naturally, I'm disappointed," Moulinie said after the decision was announced. "My future is in the hands of my attorney."

Moulinie, who denied that he had been intimate with Mrs. Worthington, testified that he accidentally shot her husband as he tried to intimidate Worthington with the latter's service pistol.

The War at A Glance

en Germany are expected to be the outgrowth of the first conference between Messrs. Roosevelt, Churchill and Stalin.

Military campaigns already underway to eliminate the Germans from the war continued, meanwhile, and the enemy suffered further reverses in Italy and Russia, as well as in the Reich itself.

As two columns of the Red Army converged on the vital Zhlobin junction on the Gomel-Minsk railway, increasing the threat of encircling rapidly retreating Nazi forces in White Russia, they liberated more than 100 additional towns northwest of Gomel. Among the strong points occupied by the Soviets were Dovak and Soltanovka, the latter but 14 miles from Zhlobin.

Elsewhere on the long Russian front, the enemy was resisting Soviet drives with increased ferocity, and flaming tank and infantry battles left the battlefields "strewn with enemy dead." Particularly in Novogeorgievsk, 20 miles west of Kremenchug, were Nazi casualties high when Russian troops expelled the Nazi garrison.

The British Eighth Army strained to the breaking point the Germans' trans-peninsular Italian defense line as the Allies pressed forward against dogged enemy resistance along the Adriatic coast.

Shortly after the Nazis admitted evacuating Lanciano, to the east of captured Castel Frentano, the Britons of Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery were reported to have captured San Vito, important coastal town.

On the western portion of the front, the American Fifth Army also pressed forward against equally strong enemy resistance, making local gains. Within Germany, Berlin blazed from new fires set by powerful forces of heavy British bombers. Neutral reports said half the German capital was in ruins. Scarcely 24 hours after the new conflagrations were touched off by the RAF craft, other formations of Allied planes swept across the English Channel to targets within the Reich.

The authoritative British Press Association said the RAF formations were very large and observers believed their target may have been within blazing Berlin. However, the RAF objectives were not immediately identified officially.

Meanwhile in New Guinea, Australian jungle fighters closed in on Woreo after taking the Kuanko outpost with strong artillery support. Between captured Bonga and Woreo, the Aussies were "mopping up," Gen. Douglas MacArthur's communique said.

Air and military installations of the enemy in New Guinea and Bougainville also were battered by Allied airmen.
